LEADING TECHNICAL TEAMS

One-on-ones that are not status meetings

For weekly or every-other-week check-ins

A SUGGESTED 30-MINUTE AGENDA

1. Their topics first — Start with what they brought. — 5 min

2. Obstacles — What slows them down, and what they need from you. — 10 min

3. Quick progress check — Only what the tickets do not show. — 5 min

4. Goals and growth — Skills, goals, and what comes next. — 5 min

5. Feedback both ways — One thing each. Write down commitments. — 5 min

Suggested timing. Adjust it to the person.

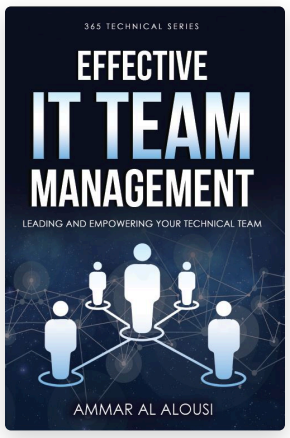

Keep it about the person

Questions that open it up

- What is eating more time than it should?
- What do you need from me this week?
- What could I do differently?

Signs it became a status meeting

- ✕ Every answer was already in the tickets.
- ✕ You did most of the talking.
- ✕ It is the first meeting cut when busy.

Effective IT Team Management recommends one-on-ones every week or every other week, and setting goals with each person in them.
